JACKSONVILLE, ALABAMA.

SATURDAY, OCT. 4th, 1873.

The representatives of banks and savings institutions have met in almost every city of the Union and determined to pay out no more currency for the present. They act as if they were better guardians of the interests of depositors, than themselves. Men who have money they desire to be literally safely kept, will patronize these institutions hereafter.

The banks understand, by a reasoning peculiar to themselves, how financial panics are easiest floated over. It may be satisfactory to them, but when depositors again get their hands upon their greenbacks, it is a dead sure thing they will place them where they think they will do the most good, and that place will not be in the vaults of the banks. Wilkins Micauber never discharged a pecuniary obligation within an I. O. U. with greater unction, than these banks now hand out their certificates of indebtedness to luckless depositors.

How the Panic Serves the West.

The North West is liable to suffer more severely from the money panic, should it continue a few days longer, than any other part of the Union. In a short time the canals and lakes of that section will be no longer navigable, and there will be a dead lock of transportation until next spring. Unless the grain crop is moved before the dead lock sets in, the grain trade is ruined for the season. Those who buy the crops of the West for exportation are unable to do so now for want of the gold to buy foreign exchange. Corn promises to be cheaper fuel than coal, in the frozen regions of the North West, while thousands in Europe and the South are crying loudly for want of the staff of life.

Agrarianism is despicable. No evil can result from any man making all that he can by honest and legitimate trade and speculation, but we believe the laws of the country should be so framed as to prevent any set of men in Wall Street or elsewhere from thus destroying the usual channels of trade and commerce, thereby bringing want and suffering upon thousands of those who are unable to check or avert the evil. Corners in grain or anything else that supports the great majority of the people of the Union—the agriculturists—should be prohibited by legislative enactments. Such a law was in force in Alabama and possibly throughout the Southern Confederacy during the late war. It operated well then, and it would operate well now throughout the Union. The time has come when a few millionaires should not be allowed to throw the country into the wildest financial confusion, or to divert the natural channels of trade, or to lower the prices of the products of the country from 25 to 50 per cent., at one fell swoop. Let these Wall Street gamblers—men of real means, who loll in their magnificent carriages and sup and dine on viands that Kings might envy, continue thus to prey upon the very vitals of our country—the agricultural interests—and the red flag of Communism may soon be flaunting in their faces. New York is fast becoming the American Paris. The mob of that city can as soon learn its power as did the sans culottes of the first French Revolution in Paris. We hope that such a state of affairs may never exist. But they will surely come, unless steps are taken by the law making powers of the Nation to stop this wild and reckless speculation in farm products.

Col. Saffold, editor of the Selma Daily Times, and President of the Alabama Press Association, has a beautiful new house and a beautiful new baby. He deserves them both. He is the "Prince of Editors" and his wife says "the father of the prettiest baby in Alabama."

Long may the Col. and his baby live!

Mr. Nesbit proposes to put his mill property in as stock with a stock company for the purpose of erecting a paper mill near Jacksonville. The water supplied from two immense springs is ample to run the machinery of a large establishment. The water is so clear that the bottom can be plainly seen at a

THE PANIC IN NEW YORK.

Broad and Wall Streets One Surging Mass of Excited Men.

MILLIONAIRES REDUCED TO BEGGARS.

The Republican's Reporter Interviews an Eye Witness.

WHEN WILL CONFIDENCE BE RESTORED?

A REPUBLICAN Reporter learning that a prominent citizen of this place had just arrived in town directly from New York, on last Tuesday called upon him and obtained much information interesting to the public, concerning the great panic, which has been shaking the financial world to its very foundations for the last two weeks. He found the aforesaid citizen surrounded by a crowd of eager listeners to whom he was relating the scenes and incidents witnessed by him while in the great city. Without knowing the intention of our reporter to publish what might be said he was asked:

"To what do the solid sober men of New York attribute the sudden financial crash? We have heard various causes assigned and would like to know what those who were upon the ground think about it."

"A panic was caused by depositors checking on private bankers who were unable to meet their obligations. This failure was caused on account of the inability of stock brokers, who had been unfortunate in their speculations, to pay the bankers the money borrowed from them on call. The bankers of course were thus prevented from paying depositors and were compelled to at once suspend payment. The suspension of Jay Cooke & Co. started the ball in motion which in its revolutions overwhelmed other great banking houses."

"What was the action of the private bankers, stock dealers and brokers when they learned of the suspension of the various bankers?"

"I was in New York on 'Black Friday,' but the excitement then, was but as a zephyr, compared to the whirlwind of excitement that existed in the stock exchange soon after the announcement of the suspension of Jay Cooke & Co. and of Henry Claws & Co. The scene beggars description. The President of the Stock Exchange took the responsibility of closing the doors of the Exchange. An opposition exchange commenced operations a few doors below, but the price charged for membership added to the fact that the beautiful weather had tempted many to the street where business was already brisk, virtually closed the opposition exchange and at last nearly all transactions were confined to the street. I have never witnessed such a scene as was enacted at the height of the panic. Wall and Broad Streets were one solid mass of screaming, shouting men, who looked more like madmen than reasonable beings. They were tossing up their hats and calling at the tops of their voices, offering to buy or sell stocks of all kinds. I saw men with faces as white as your shirt unnered and trembling. Many of them had been reduced from affluence to beggary in a few brief hours, and did not have enough money to buy the steak for their morning's breakfast. I remember particularly one old man who had come to New York for the purpose of investing $150,000, the earnings of a life time in some kind of safe stocks. A broker persuaded him to buy upon a margin—or in other words to pay only a certain per cent. on several hundred thousand dollars worth of stock. In a few hours the stocks purchased declined heavily and the entire amount, except $700, was swept away."

"How long did the excitement last?"

"For several days. The papers each morning contained expressions of belief that the worst of the storm had blown over, but a new suspension was only necessary to again cause another revolution of the cyclone of excitement."

"Have any of the great commercial houses yet failed?"

"No. The want of banking facilities is an inconvenience that will operate to the detriment of commerce as well as manufactures. If the lock-up is not opened by the time the next payments are due great sacrifices will have to be made or suspensions will be the consequence. All the great commercial houses have floated over the present troubles."

The car-wheel patented a few years ago by our townsman, Mr. George Peacock, is being appreciated by railroad men and manufacturers in other parts of the country. Its superiority is so manifest, that no practical man can fail to recognize it. On Wednesday last Mr. Peacock had a letter from a large car-wheel foundry in the interior of New York proposing negotiations for the use of his patent. One of his wheels on exhibition at the Louisville Exposition is attracting so much attention there, that yesterday he was called thither by telegraph to look after his interests in the premises. The Alabama Central is using his wheels, and with sufficient capital, he could speedily build up an establishment here that would give employment to hundreds of hands and greatly contribute to the prosperity of the South.

who will be the ultimate sufferers from the panic?"

"The farmers. If the crash occurred sixty days later, the merchants and commission men would have all been ruined—the decline of cotton would have taken place while in their hands, it having passed out of those of the farmers. It is thought that the injury will fall upon the shoulders of the larger number and will be felt less heavily by the farmers than by any other class."

"What do you think of the formation of a Ring whose purpose it was to reduce the price of cotton and grain, by reducing the amount of currency in circulation?"

"The prevailing opinion seems to be, that whatever may have first originated the panic the great cause of the reduction of the currency was the withdrawal of deposits from the banks by panic stricken depositors. Clews & Co. paid out as is reported $1,700,000, before suspending."

"Why do nearly all the banks of New York and in other cities refuse to pay depositors?"

"Because it was deemed best for the public good and for the good of depositors, that the panic should cease before the further payment of any money. It is said there are millions of dollars in the vaults of the banks; but that if it was paid out to panic stricken depositors, who in a short time will get over their scare, the grain and cotton buyers of New York and other cities, would be unable to move the present crop. Numerous vessels leave New York empty, which but for the panic would be loaded with grain and cotton. Europe is starving for bread while our granaries are filled to overflowing, and it is with the hope of being able to move this crop that the bankers retain deposits."

"How will the people of this section be affected by the crash?"

"A stringency will be felt in the money market. Cotton of course will not command as high prices as it would have done. Thirty days ago I could have obtained without any trouble several thousand dollars with which to buy cotton but now I cannot obtain a cent. The merchants in New York are not crediting any one who is not known to be 'good dead or alive.' This action on their part will compel the retail merchants to adopt a cash system to a great extent. All speculations in New York have ceased, except such as are settled during the day. A certain portion of each day is set apart to closing up of transactions made during that day. The solid men of New York would be gratified at the fall of the stock gamblers; but for the fact that they have carried with them in their fall the financial interests of the whole country."

"Where will it all end?"

"The storm may have already blown over, or it may be just approaching. Every effort is being made to restore confidence. The future only can develop the result. It is the prevailing opinion of the best business men that the worst has passed."

Your reporter left the accommodating gentleman impressed with the idea that Gotham had at last been brought to feel, as did the people of the South, when with one fell swoop—by the stroke of the pen, when the emancipation proclamation was signed by the President—they were robbed of millions of dollars of property, and thousands of people were reduced from affluence to want and poverty. Our sincere regret was, that upon the farmers must fall the burden created by the false calculations of gamblers in stocks speculating upon an assumed capital.

The car-wheel patented a few years ago by our townsman, Mr. George Peacock, is being appreciated by railroad men and manufacturers in other parts of the country. Its superiority is so manifest, that no practical man can fail to recognize it. On Wednesday last Mr. Peacock had a letter from a large car-wheel foundry in the interior of New York proposing negotiations for the use of his patent. One of his wheels on exhibition at the Louisville Exposition is attracting so much attention there, that yesterday he was called thither by telegraph to look after his interests in the premises. The Alabama Central is using his wheels, and with sufficient capital, he could speedily build up an establishment here that would give employment to hundreds of hands and greatly contribute to the prosperity of the South.

The Favorite Home Remedy.

PAIN-KILLER.

Has been before the public thirty years, and probably has a wider and better reputation than any other Proprietary medicine of the present day. At this day there are but few unacquainted with the merits of the PAIN-KILLER; but while some extol it as a liniment, they know but little of its powers in easing pain when taken internally; while others use it internally with great success, but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally. We therefore wish to say to all, that it is equally successful, whether used internally or externally. It is sufficient evidence of its virtues as a standard medicine to know that it is now used in all parts of the world, and that its sale is constantly increasing. No curative agent has had such a wide spread sale, or given such universal satisfaction.

DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, prepared from the best and purest materials, and with a care that insures the most perfect uniformity in the medicine; and while it is a most effective remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in the most unskilful hands.

It is eminently a FAMILY MEDICINE; and by being kept for immediate resort, will save many an hour of suffering, and many a dollar in time and doctor's bills.

After over thirty years trial, it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues, from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent Physicians commend it as a most effective preparation for the extinction of pain. It is not only the best remedy ever known for Bruiises, Cuts, Burns, &c., but for Dysentery, Cholera, or any sort of bowel complaints, it is a remedy unsurpassed for efficiency, and rapidity of action. In the great cities of India, and other hot climates, it has become the standard medicine for all such complaints, as well as for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, and all other kindred disorders. For Coughs and Colds, Canker, Asthma, and Rheumatic difficulties, it has been proved by the most abundant and convincing testimony to be an invaluable medicine.

We would caution the public against all imitations of our preparation, either in name or style of putting up.

The next being a year of general elections, we desire to increase the circulation of our paper, and to assist in the accomplishment of this object, we now make the following proposition:

To all new subscribers, who will pay the advance price $2, we will furnish the Republican until the close of the year 1874; and we will do the same for all our present subscribers who pay up arrears and one year in advance. They will thus obtain from this time the paper for more than fifteen months, for the advance price of one year. We will also, if desired, furnish "Wood's Household Magazine," an able and interesting monthly, of unexceptionable moral tone, for one year, by the payment of 50 cents extra.

Public Meeting in Rome.

For the first time in the history of financial crises there seems to be a wide distinction made between the banking and suspending of a bank. The banks in Rome, Selma, Montgomery, Mobile, Atlanta, and other cities of the South and North have nearly all suspended, but the commercial men have almost universally held meetings and endorsed their action. Here is the way a committee of the citizens and merchants of Rome Ga. put it, although all of what is said does not accord with our views.

The resolution for the benefit (?) of the planters is the cheekiest we have seen. Now, if a banker or a broker has an average deposit of fifty thousand dollars and is suspending on business going on as heretofore in healthy channels, and relying on good crops, lends out twenty-five thousand dollars of his depositors' money into safe hands, and on undoubted security, there is nothing wrong, yet if all the depositors come at once for their money it is very evident they cannot get it.

Again suppose a bank discounts a ten thousand dollar draft of an iron company. The draft being drawn at sixty days sight on a number one iron house in Cincinnati, to whom more than enough iron or more than enough money is shipped to pay the draft, when it falls due, that appears to be a very safe operation; but if the sixty days matured last week, and the Cincinnati house could not pay it because of the panic there, the bank would for a time be out of the use of the sum which it confidently relied upon to meet its own needs. So will an iron number of these disappointments come upon a bank all at once, it must for a time surrender, notwithstanding its assets be ten times its liabilities.

And when the banks suspend, the merchants and the manufacturers must do likewise. The farmer may have cotton ready for market, but if there is no money sent from the North to buy it he will for a time feel very poor, although he may really be rich. If he owes only a hundred dollars he can't pay it. And this is precisely the situation of the farmer and the merchant and the manufacturer.

The merchant could pay in goods or in notes; the farmer could pay in cotton the manufacturer could pay in iron products; and the banker could pay in good men's obligations; but none of these are money, and therefore will not be received. The money is not in circulation. It has been for a time actually withdrawn from circulation, and cannot be had, and in this present crisis it is not the fault of our people.

There has not been a time since the war when the condition of our people was so gloomy and so hopeful. We have abundant cause for gratitude, and but for this unforeseen and unexpected calamity, would have felt that we were almost entirely restored to that prosperous condition which we boasted of before the war.

This cannot last long. For the North, though mighty and powerful, is obliged to have our cotton, and before long will make some arrangement to move it. Until then we call upon every man who can do anything to prevent distress and keep the wheels of business moving, to do so.

Resolved.

That for the purpose of relieving our wretched and business men, we unite as the planters, who are indebted to them to come forward at once with their cotton and produce, and sell at a fair price or deposit it as collateral for their indebtedness. If the merchants have these commodities in store, it will greatly assist them in purchasing new goods and continuing their business, they having lost all advantages usually obtained from banking institutions.

Our Big Franklin Cucumber Beat.

In last Saturday's Jacksonville (Ala.) Republican we find a letter from Davisville, stating that Mr. Milam, of that place, had raised a cucumber that measured four feet and eleven inches long and weighing "Dan" to try again. "Dan," being in town when we received the paper, said he had been there, and the cucumber had all been gathered and the vines pulled up—but if he had received this challenge in time he could have beat this Alabama vegetable. The Editor of the Republican takes occasion to claim that old Calhoun cucumber beat any part of Louisiana in the variety, beauty and abundance of productions and abundance of her young ladies. Come, Leon, that won't do! We know we have a more productive soil; though you have a splendid country, and we used to think that old Calhoun country could beat the world for pretty boys and girls. The day of our tender susceptibility, when we fell so desperately in love with every package fluttering us, we saw—but we never had seen the North Louisiana girls then. We are still very partial to old Calhoun but Richard can beat the world.

Delhi Chronicle.

Georgia has $3,432,265 invested in the manufacture of cotton. The mills are prosperous and paying good dividends. Some of them much larger ones than the best mills in the East. The example of Georgia should be followed by the Louisville Courier-Journal, by every Southern State and extensive system of home manufactures be built up. Unless this be done the South will be a victim to agricultural exhaustion. The best friend of the South at the present day is the man who shall prevail on the people to turn a large portion of their labor and capital to spinning and weaving. The great bulk of the thread, domestic, prints, and cloth used in the South, is made in the North.

THE CONTINUED RAVAGES OF THE YELLOW-FEVER at Shreveport are appalling to contemplate. In proportion to its population its sufferings and losses from this scourge are without a parallel. Two or three hundred in one day for a city reduced to less than three thousand inhabitants is a fearful record and the ravages of the disease shows no abatement. The sufferings and destitution of the citizens still surviving are daily increased. Movements for the relief of these unfortunate people have been undertaken in various cities.

The most useful citizens are victims to the fever. The Howard Association have opened an asylum, which feeds nearly two-thirds of the population. The fever, beyond question, the doctors say, was imported from Cuba, 700 are sick. The peculiar character of the disease requires peculiar and skillful attention and nourishment. Hundreds are without means or employment. The destitution is as heartrending as the disease itself. We feel that the great public heart will respond to this appeal, and that the most generous of our resources are nearly exhausted. The wealthy are broken down; the poor are threatened with actual starvation, the sick and dying are about to be deprived of the commonest comforts that humanity can offer them. We appeal not to our fellow-men, but to our fellow-men, for aid. Signed,

L. E. SIMMONS,

President Howard Association and all the Doctors.

When Senator WILLIAM ALEX, of Ohio, was asked what Democracy was he replied: "Democracy is a sentiment not to be appalled, corrupted or compromised. It knows no baseness; it covers no danger; it oppresses no weakness; it is the sentiment of freedom, of equal rights, of equal obligations, the law of nature pervading the law of the land."

The Clayton Courier says: "The present process of destroying the caterpillar is playing sad havoc with the bird family. The birds, we learn, are dying by the wholesale from eating the dead worms poisoned by Paris green. This is a great misfortune, as we believe more damage will accrue in the long run to the farming interest, by thus destroying the birds than by letting the worms eat the cotton."

SUSPICIONS.—By reference to the published proceedings of the citizens' meeting, it will be seen that the banking houses of Guthrie & Jackson and Allgood & Hargrove have suspended payments for three months. Their assets are affirmed to be ample to meet their liabilities.

We exceedingly regret this proceeding but as they have illustrated precedents elsewhere, we suppose that they will be able to resume business after awhile without any serious loss of credit.

Rome Courier.

Cherokee Georgia and Alabama.

Rome is the natural and certain centre of trade, manufactures and general shipping for a vast section of the finest country in the world, and must eventually attract capitalists from all parts of the globe. Its wealth is substantial and certain, which the failure of banks cannot effect, only to delay, for a little time, the growth of a city that is the pride of the people. The Rev. Joshua Knowles, editor of the Georgia Home Journal published at Greensboro, and once a valued citizen of Rome, recently visited this section, and the following is what he says about Cherokee Georgia and Alabama:

"The section known by this appellation, is, at present, attracting more attention perhaps than any portion of the South. It comprises the grain and mineral region of two of the largest cotton States. Until recently but little attention has been paid to its vast and varied mineral deposits, its inhabitants being mostly engaged in agriculture. From personal observations and inquiries within the last few weeks, we have arrived at the conclusion, that North Alabama and Northwest Georgia, contain more elements of wealth than any other area of equal extent in the world. To those who have not studied the question, this may seem an extravagant assertion—not so, however, with those who have given the subject profound attention. In this favored territory are found, in convenient juxtaposition coal, iron, copper, lime stone, slate, marble, gold, sandstone, forests, water power, a salubrious climate and fertile soil, yielding, in addition to the great staple, all the products of the temperate latitude, including clover and tobacco and various fruits. Add to this convenient rail and water transportation, and we have an aggregate of resources and advantages unsurpassed. An intelligent iron miner from Ohio, who visited this section, expressed his astonishment at the vast coal and iron deposits which came under his observation, surpassing anything he had seen at the North and West. When all these elements are utilized, Cherokee Georgia will be the most populous portion of the State."

Rome Commercial.

Interesting to Merchants.

The wholesale Boot and Shoe house of M. F. GOVAN & Co., Rome, Ga. have received their Fall Stock, which is unusually large. They propose to sell to Merchants at New York prices. This is no boast. They are reliable, and from what we know of them, we believe they will do every time.

They will have an agent with samples

Special Notices.

Perry Davis' Pain Killer.

Every day affords new proofs of the peculiar effects of this preparation. In cases where a disordered condition of the stomach, liver and bowels, is combined with great debility, nervous weakness, and intense melancholy, its effects are most beneficial and wonderful. It should be kept by every family.

THE THIEF who was arrested for robbing Parsons, store in this town, was found to have a quantity of AYER'S Hair Vigor in his possession. When asked why he wished to steal that article, he answered that he "wanted to restore his hair, for it was hard to be a thief and bald too." If that invention of the great chemist could restore a faded character as effectively as it does their natural beauty to bald and gray heads, it would surely be, as they say it now is, truly invaluable. Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

Natural Decay—Protect the System.

The human body is a machine, and therefore cannot endure forever; but, like a watch or a sewing machine, it will last much longer if properly regulated and kept in order. The great object of every one who desires a long and healthy life should be to put his body in a condition to resist the threatening influences by which we are all more or less surrounded, and no invigorant and corrective at present known so effectively answers this purpose as the vitalizing elixir which, under the unpretending name of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, has been for more than twenty years the standard tonic of America. In crowded cities, where the atmosphere is contaminated with the effluvia inseparable from large populations, in marshy regions, where the soggy soil reeks with miasma, and in the forests, where every fall the air is tainted with exhalations from rotting weeds and grasses, or decomposing leaves—in short, in every locality where malaria exists, this powerful vegetable antidote is urgently needed. Fever and ague, biliousness, dysentery, congestion of the liver, jaundice, rheumatism, and all diseases which are generated by infected air, impure water, or sudden changes of temperature, may be avoided by strengthening and regulating the system in advance with Hostetter's Bitters. Autumn is always a season of peril, especially to weak, susceptible organizations. Even the more vigorous are apt to be in some measure depressed by the humid atmosphere, loaded with deleterious gases produced by vegetable decay. The fall is a period of the year when the renovation and regulation of the living machine is peculiarly important, and the Bitters should therefore be taken daily at this critical season.

DESIRABLE.

Every family will find it desirable to keep Magic Arnie Lintiment on hand. It is composed of Extract of Arnica, Chloroform and rare essential oils, chemically combined, and is always ready, never becoming solid or rancid. It is beyond all praise as a relief for all penetrating liniment made and one bottle is worth a gallon of any other kind.

GENESEE. The following are voluntary statements. I make them alone for the good of the suffering. When I was in your city you recommended to me and advised me to buy the Magic Arnie Lintiment. My reply was, I had no confidence in patent nostrums. I told you of a hurt sustained several years since, that had not been relieved, but was increasing with age. You then presented me with a bottle of this Lintiment. I took it through courtesy to you. A week after I got home I concluded to use it. I applied it twice each day for two weeks. Since that time I have felt no pain, but feel as well as I did twenty years ago. The bottle of Lintiment has been worth more to me than the bottle filled with gold would have been. I recommended the Lintiment to all who I felt suffering with rheumatism, or any other cause whatever. It recommends itself wherever used.

EMIGRATION TURNING!

Cheap Farms in South-west Missouri.

The Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company offers 1,200,000 acres of land in Central and South-west Missouri, at from $2 to $12 per acre, on seven years time with free transportation from St. Louis to all pretenses. Climate, soil, timber, mineral wealth, schools, churches and law-abiding society invite emigrants from all points to this land of fruits and flowers. For particulars address A. Tuck, Land Commissioner, St. Louis, Mo.

Beyond the Mississippi!

Thousands have already gone, and thousands more are turning their eyes towards new homes in the fertile West. To those going to Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Nevada, Oregon or California, we recommend a safe, quick and direct route, via St. Louis, over the Missouri Pacific Railroad, which runs its fine Day Coaches and Pullman Sleepers from St. Louis to principal points in the West, without change. We believe that the Missouri Pacific Railroad has the best track and finest and safest equipment of any line west of the Mississippi, and its connections with roads further West are prompt and reliable. The Texas connection of this road is now completed, and passengers are offered a first class all-rail route from St. Louis to Texas, either over the Missouri-Kansas & Texas R.R., via Fort Worth, or via New Orleans, and we refer our readers to E. A. Ford, General Passenger Agent, St. Louis, Mo. Questions will be cheerfully and promptly answered.

The Autumn of Life.

It is the solemn thought connected with middle life, that last business is begun in earnest, and it is then, midway between the cradle and the grave, that man begins to marvel that he has the days of youth go by so half enjoyed. It is the pensive autumn feeling, it is the sensation of half sadness that we experience when the longest day of the year is passed, and every day that follows is shorter, and the light flinter, and the feeble shadows tell that Nature is hastening with gigantic footsteps to her winter grave. So does the man look back upon his youth. When the first gray hairs become visible, when the unweildy coat fastens itself upon the waist, and the man no longer going up hill, but down, and that the sun is always westerly, he looks back on things behind. When we were children we thought as children. But now there lies before us manhood, with its earnest work, and the old age, and then the grave, and then home. There is one and youth for man, better and holier than his first, if he will look on, and not look back.—P. W. Robertson.

The ensuing session will begin on Wednesday the 1st day of October.

Parents wishing to send their daughters off to a boarding school, will find this the most perfectly equipped establishment of the kind in the South.

It boasts the largest boarding School for young Ladies in the State of Alabama, and we are able to reduce our rates very low.

The Faculty is large, the course of study thorough, the Library and Art

Schools of the highest order, and the facilities superior to anything of the of buying bonds, and then shamelessly the Treasury Department bought bonds from its favorites and refused to buy from its adversaries; and then more shamelessly still, that Department affected to find constitutional and legal scruples against the only thing it could do to relieve the market. The purchases of bonds was the only possible legal intervention by the Government.

and intervention by the Administration, and this was soon stopped from scruples as to its legality. In all its history, I believe this Administration has now here, for the first time, found this an objection to any course.

But why should not the Administration use the greenbacks and redeem the bonds? The greenbacks have been at from one to three per cent premium. The bonds are redeemable. The holders offered to sell them. The Admin-administration has the money. The country is harassed. Why should not the Administration use money which it has; and, if necessary, use it reserves? That will pay the debt; that will reduce the interest; and perhaps that would restore confidence and credit.

If this panic is in any degree the result of the close intercommunication of the National Banks, so that when one fails they all go down, when our sup-depends they all refuse to pay, is it not time to consider whether that is the best system, and to remember that no Government has ever been able to wage such an unequal contest.

If this panic arose from the fact that Jay Cooke & Co. were the financial agents of the Government—the depositaries of the public moneys, the representatives and agents of the Government abroad, the head of the Syndicate—

the Ajax and Achilles of the financial system—is it not time for the people to consider whether the Administration may barter off high financial positions, with all its delicate responsibilities as a reward for part-time service; and may confer official station, and with it credit and power, where the chief inducement has been personal devotion, and chief aim is to have opportunity for speculating in the money market?

Gentlemen one word and I shall have finished. I do not look upon this as an unimportant election. We have a Governor and a Legislature to elect, and they control the policy of Ohio for the next two years.

elect a Senator, whose voice and vote will speak for Ohio in National affairs for six years. The results of the election are important in the present and far-reaching in the future.

right, courageous, outspoken Statesmen, and whatever else even malice may have said of either of them, it has never connected their names with the suggestion of dishonor or dishonesty. In my judgment it is our highest duty as citizens to elect these men, and thus to put the seal of condemnation upon a party whose policy leads to the results which I have attempted to describe.

Oratory.

Maj. C. H. Smith (Bill Arp) addressed the young men of Rome, Ga.

recently on the subject of "Oratory." We have only space for the closing portion, which young men would do well to heed:

The youth of this generation owe it to their fathers to improve upon the past in everything. The world must go forward in art, in science, in culture, in thought.

and eloquence. You have greatly the advantage of your fathers in : thousand ways; and if you do not excel them you are a fraud upon the progress of the age in which you live. Some seem to think it is enough to excel them in the small vices of the times; to eat more, drink more, to smoke and chew a an earlier age, dress finer, spend more money, read more dime novels, break more buggies, carry more pistols, and utter more oaths. But we are persuaded better things are and you, who seem to be giving earnest heed to the precepts of your faithful teachers. Oh, for a city full of noble, earnest, thoughtful young men. How safe with their presence

How like a wall would they environ

Among the list of deaths reported from Shreveport is that of General John S. Hodges, formerly commander of what was known as "Dick Taylor's Brigade" of Federal vision, Stonewall Jackson's corps

The Army of Northern Virginia. Gener al Hodges says the Galvesto
Commercial started out as captain in the Ninth Louisiana, and was promoted through successive grades to the colonelcy of the celebrated fighting regiment, participating every engagement, from the first at Manassas to the last campaign around Richmond, and was wounded nine times, twice very seriously. He was one of the most prominent and wealthy families of Northern Louisiana, and his untimely death the General being only about thirty years of age—will be sincere injured by a large and appreciative circle of friends.

LYNCHING IN LOUISIANA

Twelve Horse Thieves Hanged by the Vigilance Committee.

The troubles which we anticipated would come between the citizens of the Vigilance Committee and the horse thieves, that is, that they would have at last broken out with open violence, says the Louisiana State Bee.

The committee, urged to desperation by the cool audacity of the robbers, have given to their long pent up feelings of indignation and contempt the work of retributive justice. Up to writing some account of the recent horse-stealing, says the Louisiana State Bee.

Our streets are full of vagabonds and ex-agitated runners, and the operations of the Vigilance Committee are in progress.

It is not to be expected that a correct account of the recent horse-stealing, says the Louisiana State Bee.

From the best sources at hand we elicit the following information:

A delegation of citizens from Abbeville had called upon Gov. Kellogg with a view of having the facts before him in relation to the recent horse-stealing, and the course of a trial in the matter.

The Governor told them that it was his duty to go and wherever the exigencies of the case seemed to require.

Armed with this permission, they proceeded at once to seize and hang three or four of the worst characters among them.

One of them is said to have been a son of an ex-convict, and a prisoner was taken out of jail and charged the same fate.

A further testimony to having been seized and executed.

Persons who come from Abbeville testify to having seen three or four bodies swinging from trees in the neighborhood.

The most intense excitement prevails, and the members of the committee are working the country in search of the "spoiled" individuals, and hanging them as fast as caught.

Two of the leading thieves are known to have passed New Iberia the day after the hanging commenced, on their way to the prison.

He is said to have thrown his wife into the bay and turned his horse loose upon arriving there.

preparatory to making his way to the city. He was, however, telegraphed for and arrested.

On another evening a man named Pagnot was hanged.

The horse thieves were at first arrested by a party of fifteen or twenty men, armed with shot guns, a prison on board, supposed to be the one arrested at Brashear, forcibly abducted.

Parties who afterward met this same group declared the prisoner was not the man in the prison.
